Russia Not On Hoover Itinerary

Leaves Today To Check Food Crisis In Europe; Soviets Have Asked Aid

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Russia has been removed from the list of countries which Herbert Hoover will visit on his famine-inspection tour.

This was learned here today as the former president, food administrator during World War I, packed his bags in New York for a hunger-inspection trip which may take him around the world.

(An agriculture department information officer insisted tonight that the decision on whether Hoover will go to Russia has not yet been finally made. He acknowledged, however, that Russia is not on the itinerary as of the moment, but said Hoover still might go there if he were invited.)

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Amid reports that Russia has been removed from the list of countries which Herbert Hoover will visit on his famine-inspection tour, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said tonight the former president will decide his own itinerary.

"We don't know which countries Mr. Hoover will visit," said Anderson. "He is making his own itineary and his own decisions on which countries he will visit."

Hoover is scheduled to leave New York tomorrow for a flight to Paris to begin a check on what President Truman has called the worst food crisis in modern times. He is expected to be gone about five weeks. The journey under present plans will take him to every European country appealing for American food, and possibly to India.

Russia Originally Included

When he accepted President Truman's invitation to make a survey of food needs of war-torn and famine-stricken countries, Hoover and government food officials included Russia in his itinerary. Russia, along with most of Europe, has asked for American assistance.

But when it became known here this week that Russia had offered to supply France with 250,000 tons of wheat, the government scratched the Soviet Union from Hoover's visiting list. Officials explained that the inspection trip had been intended to include only those countries asking for and needing American food.

They said Russia's action in offering aid to France—an action which Hoover lauded at a news conference here this week—led to the assumption that Russia is no longer in need of grain from this country's limited supplies.

This decision to skip Russia came to light amid Washington reports that the selection of Hoover to make the hunger survey had been opposed by some top-ranking administration officials.

Wallace Is Critical

Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace was named as one of those who opposed Hoover. Wallace would not comment personally on the report but close friends said he is critical of the voluntary food conservation program sponsored by the government's famine emergency committee which Hoover heads. They said the secretary does not believe it will save enough food to meet the urgent need.

This, however, is not the first time the Truman administration has sought Hoover's advice and help on the food situation. Last May he was called to the White House for a conference on the food situation in Europe.

For Reduction In Size

And one of the first things Secretary of Agriculture Anderson did when he entered the cabinet last July to tackle food shortages was to seek advice from Hoover.

To carry out the recommendation of the famine emergency committee that the weight of bread loaves and other bakery products be reduced by 10 percent, Secretary Anderson asked governors of all states today to eliminate if possible any restrictions that would prevent marketing of smaller loaves.

Asked Refund, Then Left When Questioned

NEWARK, N. J. March 16—(AP)—In the final hours before midnight deadline for income tax returns last night a man appeared at the internal revenue office here to ask for a refund for a friend who hadn't been earning anything recently because he had been in jail.

An internal revenue collector found out the friend had been arrested in a robbery case.

The government man asked: "How much did your friend get in the holdup? That's taxable income, you know."

The friend said he'd go up to the jail to find out. He didn't return.

John Cardinal Glennon Is Laid To Rest

In Catholic Cathedral That Is Monument To Him

ST. LOUIS, March 16—(AP)—The body of John Cardinal Glennon, who at the age of 83 lived less than three weeks as a cardinal, was laid to rest today in the great Catholic cathedral that stands as a monument to his 42 years as archbishop of St. Louis.

He died seven days ago in Dublin, where he paused for sentimental reunion in his homeland on the way back from Rome. The crowded street outside the cathedral was still adorned today with some of the decorations which had been put up for a joyous homecoming receiption.

Three American cardinals who received the red hat with him in Rome were seated on thrones in the sanctuary for the final ritual, and also present were more than 1,000 ordained servants of the catholic church, including 70 bishops and archbishops.

The pontifical mass of requiem was celebrated by the apostolic delegate in Washington, Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, and in the hush of the huge byzantine interior the eulogy was given by a man consecreated by Archbishop Glennon in 1918—Bishop Christopher E. Byrne of Galveston, Tex.

A Great Builder

Bishop Byrne said "his eminence was a great builder but never a great borrower," observing that the cathedral, which cost millions, was built without debt—just a few years after John Joseph Glennon came here in 1903 as "the boy bishop" from Kansas City.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, Edward Cardinal Mooney of Detroit and Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago occupied thrones in the sanctuary. The other American cardinal, Denis Dougherty of Philadelphia, dean of the United States Catholic hierarchy, could not be present.

Under Glennon's long leadership the St. Louis see grew to 308 parishes and membership of some 450,000. He left Ireland at the age of 21 and became a bishop at 34. He was a priest for 61 years, a bishop 49 and an archbishop 42, having been raised to that office before the 1904 St. Louis world fair.

Mass Demonstration

In a mass demonstration of spiritual devotion long lines had passed in slow, solemn movement through the cathedral from the time the body was flown back here last Thursday. Standing room was all taken today, and many persons heard the ritual through loudspeakers outside the building. A hard shower just before the service did not disperse the crowd.

Julian H. Bagby, former mayor of Sedalia, was unanimously chosen to head the Democratic city ticket at the party convention held in the City Hall Saturday night. Veterans of World War II who sought to become candidates for office were also accepted by the convention and placed on the ticket. The veterans, asked for three offices and these offices were granted them without opposition.

Captain William Miller, commander of Memorial Post No. 5741 Veterans of Foreign Wars, a delegate with Second Ward delegation, placed before the convention the name of Paul Alpert, former lieutenant in the U. S. artillery. In referring to Mr. Alpert he said, "I have known Mr. Alpert for a number of years, he left Sedalia with the old 128th Field Artillery and has served for more than four and a half years in the service. He was shot down over France and wounded, and had an excellent record. I know that he will be a credit to the Democratic party and also to the veterans of which he is one of us."

Mr. Alpert travels for a tobacco firm.

Other Nominations

William F. Brown, former sergeant in the U. S. Army Air Forces, who was in the service for more than three years and served in India for more than two years, was nominated for City Attorney by Abe Silverman, also with the Second Ward delegation. Silverman in placing Mr. Brown's name before the convention reviewed briefly his service in the army. He is an attorney.

Virgil Corson, also a former sergeant in the U. S. Army, with service overseas in England, who recently returned home, was presented to the convention as the candidate for councilman from the First Ward by William Hert, chairman of that delegation. Corson was in the service for nearly three years.

He is in the grocery business at 811 West Main street.

Bagby was the first nominated on the ticket. His name was presented by S. J. Timborious who several years ago nominated him the first time he sought the office as mayor.

Anson Finnell, chief of police, was placed in nomination for re-election by Roy Hill of the Third Ward delegation. Mr. Hill in nominating Chief Finnell, stated that two years ago it was he who nominated the chief whose term of office has been most successful to the city of Sedalia.

Only Contest

The only contest on the floor of the convention was that for city magistrate, or police judge, that being between William E. Scotten and C. W. Bente, the latter seeking re-election. Mr. Scotten was nominated by L. C. Bryson of the Fourth Ward delegation, and Judge Bente's name was presented by Dan M. Carr also from the Fourth Ward.

Following the voting Mr. Scotten received 55 votes and Judge Bente had 45 votes.

'Let 'Em Eat Alfalfa' Says Food Chemist

SIERRA MADRE, Calif., March 16—(AP)—Of Europe's hungry millions, says Frank W. Bower, "let 'em eat alfalfa."

Bower, food research chemist, and his family have been eating it for more than 30 years, mixing one-third alfalfa flour to two-third wheat.

"European children, stunted and starved for vitamins and minerals for five years, would benefit immeasurably from the alfalfa mixture," said Bower.

Alfalfa has seven vitamins, while wheat has only two, and is much richer in proteins than the new "dark" flour, he added. The most obvious difference between alfalfa flour and wheat flour is its light green cast, due to the present of chlorophyl, which Bower declared is an aid to digestion.

Three Burn To Death In Crash

BRISTOW, Okla., March 16—(AP)—Three men burned to death and a fourth man was in a hospital seriously injured tonight as a result of a railroad crossing crash that halved a trailer tank and almost instantly sent 4,600 gallons of gasoline up in flames.

The dead were L. E. Wham, Oklahoma City, train engineer; Elbert A. Coulter, 24, Oklahoma City truck driver, and Jack Reilly, 43, Oklahoma City relief driver.

Guy Dennis, Oklahoma City, fireman on the train, was in a hospital but had a chance to recover, physicians said.

The collision which sent fire and smoke billowing 200 feet into the air, occurred at the north edge of the city where a road from the Wilcox refinery crosses Frisco railroad tracks.

The engine, mail and baggage cars of the second section of the Frisco Meteor passenger train were damaged, railroad officials said, when it and the freshly loaded truck came together. None of the passengers was hurt.

Both train and truck were enroute to Oklahoma City.

There were no opponents in any of the office races, the first names offered being duly seconded and winning the approval by unanimous vote of the convention delegates.

Wilks, the present mayor and candidate for re-election to that office.

Mayor Wilks also was praised for his "courtesy, tact and helpful Christian attitude . . . as well as his intellectual honesty and con-

Red Cross Fund Campaign In Pettis County Reaches $5635

A total of $5635.57 has been collected in the 1946 Red Cross Fund campaign according to reports received in the local Red Cross office up to yesterday noon.

The amount thus far contributed by residents of Pettis county represents 26 per cent of the county quota of $21,171. While complete reports of some divisions have not as yet been received, workers report a remarkable interest in Red Cross peace-time activities.

It was announced yesterday that the court house employees quota of $198 had been reached. Mrs. Nell Burrell, chairman of the north residential area, reports that the quota of $105 for that division has been surpassed with more contributions expected.

The campaign chairman, Judge J. V. Kesterson, states that some city and rural districts have not been completely covered in the fund drive thus far. He also said that it is the hope of all division chairman that all areas will be reached by workers within a few days and that reports will be made promptly to the locl Red Cross chapter.

Make Plans For Final Concert

The final concert of the Sedalia Symphony orchestra for the current season is tentatively scheduled for Monday night, April 29, Abe Rosenthal, conductor, announced Saturday.

Several artists are under consideration for a guest appearance with the orchestra, including a two-piano team that has gained extensive acclaim, according to I. H. Reed of the artists' committee for the orchestra society.

Orchestral numbers will include the Haydn Military Symphony and Theme from the "Warsaw Concerto."

The orchestra rehearses each Monday night at Smith-Cotton high school.

Not To Break With Russia

OTTAWA, March 16—(AP)—A high government official told the Canadian press today that Canada was not considering a breaking off of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia as result of reports by the Royal Commission investigating espionage activities. The commission said Moscow directed spy activities in this country seeking data on uranium, electronic armament, secret explosives and other matters.

The parliamentary press gallery, made up of reporters covering legislative sessions, adopted today a resolution expressing "the strongest condemnation of the conduct Nicholas Zheivinov, former chief of the Tass agency in Canada who, it has been revealed in the interim report of the Royal Commission examining the espionage charges, while posing as a bona fide newspaperman and a member of the press gallery, engaged in secret activities under a code name for and on behalf of Soviet government agencies other than the news agency by which he was accredited."

GOP Leader Blames Truman

PITTSBURGH, March 16—(AP)—Herbert Brownell, Jr., blamed the Truman administration tonight for "confusion and widespread dissension in the international field, plus more confusion, threats of ruinous inflation and aggravated unemployment at home."

The chairman of the Republican national committee said the situation he described resulted from the lack of "an administration which will say only what it means, and will mean every word it says."

Brownell detailed his criticism of Democratic foreign and domestic policies in a speech prepared for a dinner of the Amen Corner Club.

At the same dinner, Vice Admiral Richard L. Conolly, deputy chief of naval operations, said "the navy believes that world conditions are such as to necessitate keeping the navy and marine corps in the highest possible state of combat efficiency."

Eckles Fund Gains Nearly $300 in a Week

Smith-Cotton Teachers, Pupils Make Contribution

The Cpl. William C. Eckles Fund for the Future has climbed to $2,500 a gain of nearly $300 over last week, acording to an announcement made Saturday by Mrs. A. J. Gregory, chairman of the drive to aid the permanently disabled veteran.

The teachers and students of Smith-Cotton high school contributed $59.75 last week to the fund. At a recent meeting of Pettis chapter No. 279, Order of the Eastern Star, Fred Brummett, a member and a service veteran, made a talk in behalf of the project and the group added $29 to the fund.

It is explained htat organization gifts are made public because large groups of people are represented, but individual gifts are the ones that come in steadily. While not so large in amounts these smaller contributions help build the fund and the itemized names on the lists sent Cpl. Eckles are of interest to him.

Knowns Many Names

He has commented that he enjoys looking over the names, and recognizing many of them, and stressed that "it has been a wonderful help" to him through the last convalescent period. He also expresses his thanks to those who have sent cards and notes.

Eckles is in Sedalia this weekend on a three-day rest leave. His address at O'Reilly General hospital in Springfield, Mo., is "Cpl. William C. Eckles, 20746903, Detachment of Patients."

Shriners To Bring Circus

The Sedalia Shrine Club will bring to Sedalia and the surrounding community the Clyde Brothers' Indoor Circus, which will be billed as the first annual Shrine circus at the Coliseum, Missouri state fair grounds, for three days, commencing April 8.

The purpose is to set up a fund for handling crippled children in this community, to help them to go to and from the Shrine hospitals for Crippled Children, buying necessary braces, wheel chairs and other equipment.

The first Shrine hospital for crippled children was opened in Shreveport, La., on September 16, 1922, and since that time fourteen additional hospitals have been built and opened for the treatment and relief of crippled children. During the twenty-odd years of experience as pioneers in this movement they have found the problem large enough to warrant and deserve the co-operation of all citizens.

The deaths were all in Alabama near the Mississippi line.

Winds in this area, where most of the injuries also occurred reached an estimated velocity of more than 50 miles an hour.

Tension In Lessened In Tehran

War Minister Says His Remarks Were Completely Misinterpreted

TEHRAN, March 16—(AP)—A reliable source said today 3,000 Russian troops now were concentrated at Karaj, 20 miles northwest of this capital, but the Iranian director of propoganda declared "there is no danger to Tehran."

Earlier today, War Minister Ahmed Sepehod Amir Ahmedi denied he told a news conference Thursday that the Iranian army would fight "to the last man" of Soviet troops moved on Tehran. He said his remarks were "completely misinterpreted" by a war department interpreter.

A dispatch to the newspaper Meryar Melli from Maragheh, 300 miles northwest of Tehran, said Soviet garrisons had been established at the desert villages of Takah and Shahindej—between Maragheh and Mianeh 80 miles to the east—where Soviet columns were reported in motion several days ago.

Russians Moving Back

The dispatch added that the Russians were "moving back into railway points recently evacuated south of Mianeh."

Reports reaching here last night said Russian units advancing south around Lake Urmia near the frontiers of Turkey and Iraq, had reached points 60 miles southeast of Saujbulagh, seat of the semi-autonomous Sheikdom of Kurdish Chief Ghazi Mohammed.

Prince Firouz, propaganda director and political undersecretary of state, told newsmen: "There is no danger to Tehran. The Russian have been in the country 4½ years without attacking us. There is absolutely no threat of attack here now."

Tension Lessened

Tension in this capital noticeably lessened. Residents apparently were accepting the situation. Some wealthy families, however, have moved to village homes in the south and the daily train is booked solidly.

War Minister Ahmedi, appearing jointly at a news conference with Firouz, denied the statements attributed to him at Thursday's interview, given after Ahmedi had conferred with the Shah.

Oil Significant To Russia

MOSCOW, March 16—(AP)—The newspaper Izvestia declared today that northern Iran oil fields were of "primary significance" to Russian security, and charged that Iran four times broke the Soviet-Iranian treaty of 1921 by granting to United States and British firms oil concessions previously held by Russia.

The government newspaper accused Iran of discriminating against Russia in oil concessions, of threatening Soviet security, and of seeking to instigate conflicts between the Soviet Union and other great powers. The latter charge was made in another article in Izvestia Thursday.

Izvestia asserted that when Russia in 1944 proposed renewal of her former oil concessions in the north, the proposal met "raving resistance from the Iranian ruling upper crusts."

No Anti Allegiances

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes rejected tonight any idea of an alliance with Russia against Britain or Britain against Russia. He declared the United States bases its hopes for security on the United Nations organization "as the path to enduring peace."

In a speech before a meeting of the "Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick" at the Hotel Astor, Byrnes called for extension of the Selective Service Act beyond the expiration date of May 15.

Accident In Soviet Sector Of Berlin

BERLIN, March 16—(AP)—A series of accidental ammunition explosions shattered the Alexander Kaserne building, midtown headquarters of German civilian and Russian military police today, killing at least three persons and injuring 130.

Police continued to search the wreckage and it was feared the casualties would go higher. A police announcement said the explosions were accidental. The building is in the Soviet sector of the city.

People Have Been Paying Tribute To Phoney Shamrock

By Arthur L. Edson

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Faith, and 'tis a fine thing to learn of the true Shamrock on this blessed St. Patrick's weekend!

It will surprise no loyal son of Ireland to learn that, thanks to the ignorance of an Englishman, for 400 years people have been paying tribute to a phoney Shamrock.

What? The Shamrock we all know is an imposter"

Right, says Rev. Hugh T. O'Neill of Catholic university.

He reached his verdict after considerable study of plants and languages. Today he's ready with this conclusion:

The Shamrock you so often see, with the three petals resembling hearts, really is a wood sorrel. Scientists, when they want to get chummy, call it the oxails acetosella.

Now the real Shamrock, declares Father O'Neill, is the small hop clover. Its petals are smaller, and it's a true clover. Indeed, he adds, the very word "Shamrock" means clover.

Father O'Neill, a merry eyed priest with an astounding range of knowledge, told a reporter today that as far as he can tell the original error was made in 1571.

The Englishman Campion writing his "history of Ireland," apparently became confused because the gaelic words for clover and wood sorrel are quite similar.

Other authors, probably rewriting Campion, repeated the error.

But Father O'Neill is ready to forgive and forget.

He said the mistake was an easy one to make, and that maybe it would be wise not to stress that the Irish Shamrock has been messed up by an English boner.

"Great heavens, man!" he added cheerfully "There's no sense in starting another war."

Crossroads Comment

by G,H-S.

Relics of the past are abundant in the Historical Society's display cases in the lobby of the Pettis County Court House. There is something fascinating about the past, although "the future is only the past again."

Out of the past something bobs up. The mail brings a letter from W. H. Graffin, Star City, Indiana. It contains a copy of Volume 1, Number 1 of "The Sedalia Sentinel," dated May 1886. A rubber stamp address indicates it was originally sent to a subscriber, G. B. Cummings, Sedalia, Missouri. It is a tiny newspaper 7 inches by 11 inches, and was published monthly by the Young Men's Christian Association, price 25 cents monthly, 1,500 circulation. For advertising rates see W. T. Walker, business manager. It was produced by W. H. Reynolds, steam printer, 114 West Main street.

These names and others will be remembered by many Sedalians today. Officers of the Y.M.C.A. a half century ago were: John Montgomery, Jr., president; T. P. McCluney, vice-president; John N. Dalby, treasurer; John M. Cain, recording secretary; Page Wingrove, general secretary; board of directors: Morris Harter, J. H. Mertz, R. H. Ingram, H. L. Berry, Louis Hoffman, W. D. Fellows, J. P. Gray, W. T. Walker.

The paper is brim full of items extoling the benefits of the Y.M.C.A. and inviting greatest attendance, but oddly enough in this first issue no mention is made of the location of the meeting rooms. Attendance in classes averaged 47 monthly.

One item reads: "Thanks are due to Mr. James A. Montgomery for extending the gas pipe to the wash room, free of charge. It is a good thing to be clean, and to have the light to see when we are so."

One page is devoted to the advertisements of D. I. Holcomb, chinaware, 114 Second street; Quarles & Fellows, wallpaper; Van Wagner Bros., boots and shoes, 221 Ohio street; J. W. Bruns and Co., grocers, Sixth and Ohio; Bottoms' Shirt Factory, 215 Ohio street; J. W. Truxel Music Co., 216 Ohio; Zimmerman & Harter, flour; John Walmsley & Co., merchant tailors, 223 Ohio; S. Wright & Sons, meat markets, 701 Ohio, 501 East Third and 1108 East Third.

Also destined to become objects of interest in the Historical Society's displays are copies of Volumes I and III of J. West Goodwin's Daily Bazoo dated 1870 and 1872, preserved by Mrs. W. O. Harris, 206 South Grand. In addition she has some of the fancy calling cards Sedalia gentlemen used in the '80's when in top hats and dress attire they called upon friends each New Year's day. These are treasures indeed, some very original in design.

The 76-year-old copy of the Bazoo carried announcement of the candidacy for mayor of B. H. Ingram, Mrs. Harris' father. For aldermen were: B. F. Dean, C. M. A. Chaney, Peter Latsch, Rufus Low, John Beckley, Louis Kumm, Seth Stoughton and Finis S. Arnold.

Editor Goodwin in his items about town wrote: "All that disturbed the midnight stillness last night was a terrific cat fight on Sixth street," and "The effects of bad whisky is very evident upon our streets today."

By the way, Editor Goodwin for his four-page tabloid daily paper received $10.00 per year per subscription.

While on the subject of relics, a glance out the window revealed one being removed over the main entrance to the First Methodist Episcopal church, Fourth street and Osage. It was the old-fashioned electric sign whose letters at night were formed by light bulbs, a third of them burned out in recent times, and the metal framework considerably rusted, making it somewhat of a hazard. Removal of the sign improves the church's appearance."

There is an expression: "Concentrate though they coat-tails be on fire." That's the sort of stuff teachers like to pound into the heads of their wool-gathering pupils.

No use denying the concentration habit, properly cultivated, is a productive one. But it gets a person in difficulties, too.

The other day I concentrated so hard on contacting a person who had a ladder to sell that a woman acquaintance must have been amazed when in my profuse thanks for her assistance I kept calling her by the name of another woman. Only after I had departed and abandoned concentration on the ladder purchase did I realize committing a faux pas.

Of course I'm blaming this social error on concentration although, as a matter of fact, it might be charged to old age creeping up when the mind starts playing tricks like that.

Last fall I told the story about two White Rock hens enjoying the freedom of the backyard and the dying garden during times they flew over the chicken pen fence. When I wanted them back in the pen I walked toward them clapping my hands and shouting, "up, up, up." Forthwith they would run toward the gate and fly back into the pen. Ever since I told that story Slats Rose has looked at me with a scornful and doubting eye.

Now those two hens look at me the same way, because I have incarcerated them permanently. I clipped their wings and they do not understand this brutal denial of freedom to roam, scratch and wallow in the dirt. These dumb feathered creatures are bitter and will probably go on an egg strike and picket the other hens. If they could talk they would probably insist on collective bargaining—four hours freedom for four hours laying labor.

But spring is in the air, gardening time is near and I just can't have those hens pecking around among the seeds. Yet there's no use trying to explain this to the hens. In their ignorance they'll just have to remain sore and make the best of it. Either that or there's going to be baked chicken in our house.

Those two spoiled hens are a good bit like some national governments. "They're not satisfied to be hemmed in by a large chicken pen. They want to extend their boundaries east, west and south. They won't yield to threats, so they invite having their wings clipped. Of course the guy who performs this operation has to be careful with the wooden-handle wire leg-catcher lest he get a splinter in his hand, or trips and falls on sharp scissors.

The Daily Washington

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, March 16—It's no secret that there's been considerable talk among the brass hats in the Pentagon building about war with Russia. Some of this comes from men who honestly feel war is inevitable and favor getting it over with right now. Others chiefly favor a little war talk because of its help in passing military conscription.

However, there can be no doubt about the views of the top military man in the War Department—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Two or three weeks ago Eisenhower was attending a Washington dinner party when people began to talk about war with Russia. Irked by the conversation, he remarked that he was "amazed that so many people should suddenly be seriously considering the idea of war with Russia."

Then the chief of staff proceeded to give a pointed lecture on the foolishness of this war talk, which can be briefly summarized as follows:

"People who want war should only think a few minutes about the sacrifice Russia has made in the past five years—a loss of life and property so large we cannot conceive of it. A people who have suffered such a loss will not turn tail before any military force in the world today. But at the same time they will not go out and look for another war.

"And neither will we. This country is no more anxious to go to war than Russia. Our losses are great, and we want no more. Certainly the American people do not want to get involved in a war in which there can be no end but the destruction of the greater part of the world.

"Atom bombs or no atom bombs," the chief of staff continued, "war still means knocking out the opposing armies and establishing control over civilian populations. We saw what happened to the finest armies the world has ever seen. If we tried to conquer Russia there's no telling when we'd be able to establish ourselves on Russian soil—but once we did we'd be faced with years of slogging through Siberia.

"We have nothing to gain to start with," concluded Eisenhower, "and would have nothing left when it is over."

From Persia To Iran

Time is a changer of many things. And time has wrought great changes in the status of one diplomatic mission in Washington—the Legation of Iran.

It was just 10 years ago that the Minister of Persia—as he was then called—was arrested in Elkton, Md., and led away handcuffed by the Maryland police. Minister Ghaffar Khan Djalal had been speeding. But standing on diplomatic immunity, he had resisted arrest. So had Madam Djalal's white spitz, who resisted arrest even more volubly.

Secretary of State Hull apologized for the arrest, but the Shah of Persia, indignant, withdrew his minister from Washington. He even went to the extreme length of ordering his minister not to attend any function at the White House prior to his departure. The President of the United States, he decreed, did not have the proper respect for Persian sovereignity.

The State Department was not too unhappy about Minister Djalal's departure, for he had been a general pain in the neck, having once protested publication in the Washington Star that the Shah of Persia "had risen from the ranks," and having protested publication in the Chicago Tribune that Madam Djalal had replaced her Persian servants with English butlers.

So, for some years the Persian legation remained dark. The Shah did not like us, and that was that. We did not miss the Shah's envoy at all.

Today, however, the United States is the chief hope of Iran, and the Iranian minister, able Mohammed Schayesteh, is kept busy, not in evading the Maryland police or snubbing the White House, but in cooperating with the State Department to prevent his country's envelopment by Soviet Russia.

Anti-Housing Lobby

Most powerful lobby since the war threw itself into the battle to defeat the Wyatt housing program for veterans. Every congressman received wires, phone calls, letters from builders, lumber dealers, real-estate men.

Many telegrams were phony, as several congressmen discovered when they tried to answer them. Others were signed with the names of people who later assured members of Congress that they had not seen or sent the wires. These tactics, of course, have been used before.

The prize telegram, however, was one sent to all congressmen from the St. Paul-Minneapolis area by the Northwestern Flooring and Lumber company, of which V. H. Alberts is president.

After urging that the veterans' housing program be defeated, the lumber company had the gall to add:

"Please also exert your efforts to oppose a standing vote on these issues."

In other words, the Northwestern Flooring and Lumber company not only urged its congressmen to vote against the veterans but also opposed a vote which would let the public know how each congressman voted.

Note One: The American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars did not go to bat for the veterans' housing bill. Some veterans charge that this was because of real-estate interest in the hierarchy of the two organizations. The Amvets, on the other hand, went to bat vigorously.

Note Two: One congressman who was deluged with the telegrams from about every real-estate and lumber company in his state was John Murdock of Arizona, who nevertheless vigorously supported the veterans.

Churchill on Greece

U. S. officials just returned from Greece told the following story on Winston Churchill while the ex-prime minister was in Washington.

About a year ago when Churchill visited Athens, he said to British Ambassador Leeper: "Tell me about this man Damaskinos. Would you describe him as a scheming, medieval prelate?"

Churchill was referring to Archbishop Damaskinos of Greece. After a moment's thought, Leeper replied:

"I would never have thought of it in exactly those terms, but I suppose you would."

"Fine, fine," answered Churchill. "That's just the sort of man we want."

Shortly afterward, Archbishop Damaskinos was appointed Regent of Greece.

Forty Years Ago

At the regular meeting of the Sedalia city council tomorrow night, the appointment of judges and clerks for the April municipal election will be made. William F. Hall, of Clinton, who has the contract for constructing the sewer in sewer district No. 20, East Sedalia, will ask the aldermen to grant him an extension of time in which to complete the sewer, as work has been interrupted by inclement weather.

John Lumpee, former mayor and retired merchant, died at Versailles Friday of pneumonia, at the age of 62 years. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias.

Charles S. Moore, for the past four years secretary of the B. of R. T. board of arbitration on the Katy, returned yesterday from St. Louis, where he has been for a month past attending a board meeting with company officials. The result is gratifying to the B. of R. T., as they secured an increase of $5.60 a month for passenger brakemen, making the present scale $67.20 a month, and also secured for the Sedalia yards the Chicago scale of wages to be paid to switchmen.

The Y.P.S.C.E. of the Broadway Presbyterian church, of which Will Dixon is president, entertained over 200 guests at the church parlors Friday night. Refreshments were served and it was midnight when the guests departed.

So precious the memory

A worn baby shoe has practically no intrinsic value, but to many the memories it inspires are more precious than rubies!

Precious too is the memory of a beautiful funeral service. Surrounded by the aura of one whose life has intimately touched those participating, and viewed at a time when emotions are profoundly stirred, the ceremony makes remembrance vivid and enduring, and enriches life with its promise of hope and faith in eventual reunion.

The Heart To Find

THE STORY: The house is finished. Colin is expected back next week and Ann confesses to Mrs. Christmas that she is worried what he will think of it. Ann goes to the house for the last time, makes certain every detail has been carried out. It is everything she has always wanted herself. Colin comes in unexpectedly and finds her there.

VIII

TOGETHER they toured the house, Colin expressing unqualified approval of everything. Viewing the bedroom, his eyes were quizzical, but he made no comment, and Ann's carefully prepared defenses were never uttered. There seemed no point in them, when he didn't say anything. Back in the living room, he sat down at the piano, and struck a few notes.

"The piano frightened me," Ann confessed. "I don't know anything about them, and Mrs. Christmas told me you were awfully fussy. So I just had to do the best I could, and I had it tuned this morning. Is it all right?" she concluded anxiously.

He began to play, softly. "Very much all right," he assured her. "I couldn't have done better myself."

She curled up in a big chair, and listened. He played beautifully, with a sure, light touch. Ann, not musical herself, loved music that was well done.

As they walked back to the big house together, Ann asked him about his book. "It'll be out next month," he said. "I'm feeling particularly let down at the moment. I'll be that way until I start on something else, I suppose. I always am. I hope you'll like it, Ann."

"When will I see it?" she asked.

"When it comes out. You can wait till then," he said, laughing at her.

Ann made a little face at him. "My one chance to read a book in manuscript, and you won't let me do it," she protested.

"You'll have other chances, no doubt."

THEY sat together in the living room, before dinner. Colin looked across at Ann and asked, "What are you going to do now?"

Ann shook her head. "I wish I knew," she confessed. "You talk about feeling let down. How do you suppose I feel?"

"We'll try to think of something for you to do next," Colin said. "My house will serve as a wonderful recommendation of you, anyway."

Mrs. Christmas served dinner to them on a small table in front of the fire. It was a good dinner, and they treated it with proper appreciation, not talking much until over their coffee and cigarets. It wasn't until Mrs. Christmas had cleared away the dishes, and Colin was holding a match to Ann's second cigaret, that he inquired, "And how's your private sorrow?" It was in a calm, matter-of-fact voice that he said it, leaving it to Ann to choose how seriously she answered.

"It's pretty awful, Colin," Ann said slowly. "You see, it's not a private sorrow at all. That was just a delusion of mine. Really, I had no idea Seattle was such a small town. I won't bore you with details, but—well, all winter I've thanked God—and you, Colin—that I could spend most of my time away from Seattle."

"And Jock?"

"I haven't seen him. We don't—perhaps fortunately—move in the same circles, since his marriage."

Colin regarded her gravely. "And now?" he inquired.

Ann burrowed a little deeper among the cushions on the davenport. "Now," she said slowly, "I think I'm going to run away from it all and spend a month or so in Hollywood."

"When are you leaving?"

"A week from Saturday night, I think. Connie was to get my ticket for me today. Could you come down to see me off, Colin? I'd love having someone to see me off—"

"Would you kiss me goodby if I came to Seattle?" Colin inquired, half humorously.

"I always kiss everyone in sight when I'm going on a trip," Ann promised lavishly.

"Well, I like a little more discrimination," Colin admitted. "Still, who am I to object to small favors?"

"I don't know—who?" she retorted.

IN a moment he was beside her, his arm around her shoulders drawing her close to him. He looked into her eyes, nearly golden in the firelight, for a moment, and what he saw there seemed to change his mind, for he released her and retired discreetly a foot or two away.

"I'm sorry, Colin," Ann said. She didn't know what had shown on her face, but she had felt a momentary, unaccountable terror. She looked at the clock, then, and sighed a little. "I suppose I'd better go home," she suggested.

"Must you?" he said perfunctorily, getting to his feet. "I'll drive you in, of course."

"It seems a shame to make you," she protested a little. "But I suppose it's the only way of getting me home so you can still have the use of your car. It's such a nice car, Colin. I've loved driving it. . . . I must go say goodby to Mrs. Christmas first—I'll only be a minute."

When Ann rejoined Colin there were tears in her eyes. She took his arm as they went down the steps together, and in the car she sat close beside him. After a while his right hand left the wheel, and held hers. They didn't talk very much, and when he had stopped the car beside her house, Ann turned her head and impulsively kissed his cheek. "You're such a very swell person, Colin Drake—one of the very nicest people in the world." Then she fled into the house.

Egg Head the Jap Was Nazi' Master Spy; Offered Ring His Own Network

(World copyright by NEA Service, Inc. All rights of reproduction without express permission prohibited).

By NEA Foreign Service

STOCKHOLM— (NEA) —Of all the intelligence agents at the "Radio Bureau" on Karlavaegan 59, there was none more versatile, more highly rated or more daring than the Hon. General Makato Onodera, Japanese Military Attache in Stockholm, otherwise known as "Eierkopf"—or Egg Head the Jap.

Discovery of the Jap diplomat's identity as the master spy on the Nazi payroll is one of Herr X's real scoops. The information came to him quite by surprise and due to the general's own carelessess.

For some time, X has noticed that there is a strange affinity in the reports filed by two agents known at the Bureau as "Eierkopf" and "Dr. Emonotti." Both men are in the top class, drawing large sums of money for their reports which become ever more frequent and daring.

Who are these fellows and why do they so often appear in the same connection? Herr X would very much like to know, but for a long time his cautious inquiries fail to elicit any clues from his colleagues or superiors at the "Radio Bureau."

Then one day the mystery easily solves itself. X's boss, "Pandur"—who, at the time at least, is identical with the assistant air attache, Major Heinrich Wenzlau—hands him a letter for transmission to Berlin.

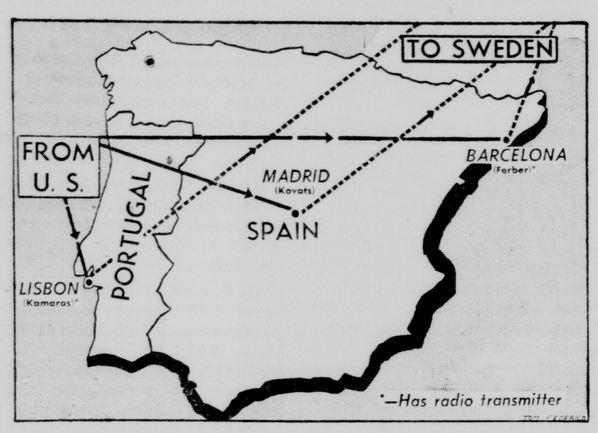

The Mystery Ends

The letter, written in a strange lingo made up of broken German and spy cant, not only confirms X's earlier suspicion that "Eierkopf" and "Dr. Emonotti" are one and the same person. It further reveals, by one of those slips that occur in the best intelligence services, that both are identical with General Onodera, the Jap military attache!

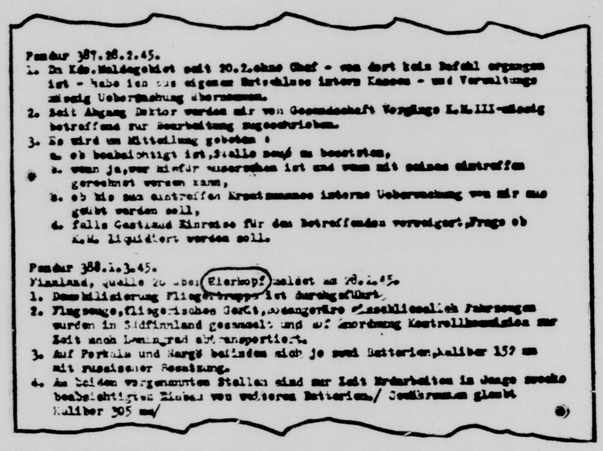

Indeed, Wenzlau, who has told X that the message is from "Eierkopf," forgets to delete the signature at the bottom of the letter, which begins with "My dear Major" and ends with "Yours very truly—Onodera."

Japanese General Makata Onodera alias "Dr. Emonotti" alias "Eierkopf" or Egg Head was as versatile, daring and highly rated as any intelligence agent in the Nazi spy ring in Sweden. Yet by capitalizing on one of those slips that occur in the best intelligence services, Herr X managed to link up Onodera, the diplomat, with "Dr. Emonotti-Egg Head" the spy.

This is Egg Head's personal spy network in the Iberian peninsula, which he offered the Nazi spy ring in Sweden. Herr Ferber in Barcelona and Kamaras in Lisbon have radio transmitters. Kovats in Madrid does not. Egg Head promised the Nazis that he would build up an espionage network to funnel information and reports between Sweden and the United States.

himself as "very honest," and inspired only by "patriotic motives."

Onodera reveals he previously worked in Ankara, but was forced to leave because of anti-British activities." He was then transferred to Sofia where he strengthened his ties of personnal friendship" with a special emissary of the O. K. W. (German High Command), named Klatt, who was in charge of military intelligence in the Near East and India. Next he proceeded to Budapest and finally to Stockholm.

Before parting from his bosom friend Klatt, Emonotti-Onodera promised him to "build up a network from Stockholm to the United States."

In fulfillment of this pledge, the Jap general informs the Nazi major that he already has at his disposal three tested spies on the Iberian peninsula. They are Herr Ferber in Barcelona (who possesses a radio transmitter); a certain Kamaras in Lisbon (who also has a transmitter); and a man named Kovats in Madrid (who lacks similar equipment).

Ferber in Barcelona obviously is the key man in the setup. He not only operates a radio transmitter but also "a lady of Japanese-Mexican stock, who will soon leave for America to work there for Germany."

Names Spanish Diplomat

Onodera's letter also involves a Spanish diplomat, identified only as "Pratt," whom the Jap general first met "officially" in Turkey.

"A German liaison agent always worked with Pratt," he writes, and he, Emonotti, alias Onodera, "assisted Pratt and the German liaison agent in their work against Syria, Palestine and India."

Later, Pratt was transferred to Finland, but went to Stockholm instead—presumably on account of the armistice between Finland and Russia concluded in September 1944. There Onodera "recently resumed contact" with him.

If there were any doubt left about "Dr. Emonotti's" real identity, it would be dispelled by two significant references to Japan in the letter.

On one passage, Onodera writes that Emonotti "in reward for his services" is setting up the threeman spy network on the Ierian peninsula "gets all information from Iberia for the Japanese intelligence service." On another, he refers to the "German-Japanese friendship" between Platt and Emonotti.

When the Jap master spy first turned up in Stockholm, the Germans there were none too pleased. They did not want any competition, not even from their allies. "Pandur" found it advisable to investigate the Japanese thoroughly before dealing with him.

This incident provides the best insight into the setup and workings of the German espionage system. One of the teleprinter reports contains the following notice in reference to Emonotti-Onodera:

"On the occasion of Pandur's visit to the Stadtbuero, on January 8. E. (Emonotti) also had a talk there with our representative, who will thus be in a position to supply details about E. It would be interesting to know for which department the man works."

Underneath this item ,a sort of inter-office memo gave the following explanations:

"Stadtbuero—the office of the S. D. (Gestapo Security Service), Berlin, Friedrichstrasse, House of the German Herald; our representative there—Captain Plage."

It is clear that this Captain Plage acts as liaison officer between the military intelligence service—formerly the "Abwehr," —and the Gestapo's own foreign intelligence section, the S. D. It is also clear from Pandur's question "for which department (Dienststelle in German) does Emonotti work? that as late as January 1945, the old rivalry etween the two intelligence outfits still persisted.

Whatever doubts Pandur, Plage, and the other Nazis may have had on Onodera's account, were dispelled when the Jap proved his usefulness. He proved to be a unique expert on, and wholesale dealer in, Allied codes.

A message (392/45) dispatched to Berlin by Pandur is significant in this respect. It reads:

'Can obtain from source Eierkopf the following diplomatic code-books: (a) Turkish (b) Vatican (c) Yukoslav (d) Portuguese (e) Brazilian (f) parts of British and American. Please inquire from decoding department whether they are interested. Since the material—part of it in the original, the rest photos is available for a short time only, request that the matter be handled with greatest possible urgency."

Later, "Source Eierkopf" extended his offer to the French codebook as well as the "British Government's telegraph code 1933." It appears from the records that single transaction of this kind with the "very honest" and "purely patriotic" Jap General relieved the Nazi spy till at Karlavaegen of 28,000 Swedish Kronor (about $7000).

"Eierkopf" makes himself useful in other ways too. For instance, he supplies the Nazis with Russian newspapers, one copy each of Pravda, Izvestia, and War and the Working Class, A special photo department is set up at Karlavaegen 59 to make photocopies of these precious papers for distribution to all interested departments in Berlin.

For three short months, the versatile Jap diplomat and general was the ace-in-the-hole of the Nazi spy center in Stockholm. In May, Onodera lost a good job, and in August an even better one.

A few months later, the whole bunch of Jap diplomats in Stockholm—genuine and spurious ones alike—was sent home by the Swedish Government, in conformity with General Douglas MacArthur's request.

final resting place long ago— a crypt in the Chapel of All Souls in the domed cathedral. The casket was placed on an imovable slab in the middle of the chapel. Later it will be removed to the basement and placed on a supporting structure newly built beneath the slab.

Long Service

The service last from 10 a. m. (CST) until 12:20 p. m.

The last person to view the body before the ceremonial closing of the casket was the cardinal's brother, Dr. William P. Glennon. Doctor Glennon said at the time of his brother's death that the start of the final illness, bronchitis, was aggravated by "heatless Rome," where the cardinal had taken pains to conserve his strength.

After the service, many who had stood in side aisles pressed forward to the high altar, and some touched the Red hat that still lay on a table. Some blessed themselves with holy water which had been used in the sprinkling ceremony. Police and firemen, acting as guards, cleared the altar space.

As the mourners departed, the attention of the gathering outside centered on Cardinal Spellman. He gave his blessing to some of those standing near but said "please don't kneel" as some started to make that gesture of reverence.

Some older St. Louisians said the funeral was the most notable in their memory, even surpassing that of another famous resident, Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, in 1891.

Candidate For U. S. Senator Here Friday

James P. Kem Visited With Many Republicans

James P. Kem, Kansas City lawyer, was in Sedalia Friday in the interest of his candidacy in the August primary for the Republican nomination for United Senator.

JAMES P. KEM
Republican Candidate
For U. S. Senator

Kem, who is 55, was born in Macon, Missouri, the son of James P. and Evelyn Lee Kem. He attended Macon schools. In 1910 he was graduated from the University of Missouri and three years later from the Harvard Law School. He is a veteran of World War I.

After the war he began the practice of law in Kansas City in the firm of Warner, Dean, McLeod and Langworthy, of which Major William Warner, then United States Senator, was the senior partner.

In 1920 he married Miss Mary Elizabeth Carroll of Bullitt county, Kentucky, and they have two daughters, Mrs. V. R. Shackelford, Jr., Orange, Va., and Miss Evelyn Kem of the home.

In 1928, legal action started by Kem resulted in the cancellation of a contract granted to Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, on the government royalty oil from the Salt Creek oil fields in Wyoming.

Fought Gas Tax Increase

In 1938 he led a successful fight against an increase in gasoline taxes in Missouri.

In 1943 he was named chairman of the Jackson County Republican Committee and in his two year tenure greatly strengthened it and instilled a harmony that had been lacking.

He never has held public office. He was president of the Lawyers Association in Kansas City in 1943 and has been a trustee of the University of Kansas City several years. He is a director of St. Luke's hospital, member of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, the William J. Bland post of the American Legion and Ivanhoe Masonic Lodge in Kansas City.

Mr. Kem has a 160-acre farm near Belton. He is a member of the Cass County Farm Bureau and the Missouri Shorthorn Breeders' Association.

In a statement made Friday, Mr. Kem said:

"I favor real and permanent reduction in government expenses and stand for a solvent America in which all of us may engage freely in production, under a government living within the means provided by the people. This is the only way in which taxes can be reduced."

Interested in Farming

"I have been interested in farming all my life. The farmer has suffered as much as any other class under regimentation, rationing and lack of production of goods he needs."

"In our foreign affairs we should lay down certain principles and adhere to them regardless of pressure from within or without.

"I favor a sound employment program, that will free workers and management alike from the shackles of government bureaucrats and arrogant labor racketeers who impose on their own members and the public alike, retaining, however, for the workers the free and unimpaired right of collective bargaining."

Mr. Kem stated that in the campaign, he would enlarge and expand on his views and take a concrete stand on every important issue of the campaign.

Red Cross Corner

The Red Cross Fund Campaign which started last Monday is progressing favorably. Home Service, the great Red Cross Corps manned by qualified social service workers who do their job on a volunteer basis, is now the paramount service of peacetime Red Cross. Shop around a little bit, and you'll be surprised to discover just how many Sedalia and Pettis county families have been assisted in one way or another by Home Service. In contributing to the campaign this year, you may be helping yourself, for no one knows when he, too, may need Red Cross. Equal your contribution of last year; if possible, exceed it.

We were proud of our Volunteers last Monday night, a large number of whom were present in a body at the War Dads meeting. It was a good meeting, and our Chapter was glad to be able to cooperate.

Michael Wolfel, Red Cross First Aid Instructor, has just completed a class in Junior Red Cross First Aid. Twenty-three were instructed and were issued certificates.

Mrs. Hugh Janes, RN, has completed a class in Red Cross Home Nursing, which consisted of a church group of the Lincoln district. These classes were made possible through the kindness and cooperation of Professor Hubbard.

scientious integrity during his four years as mayor of Sedalia."

City Attorney Ilgenfritz and City Collector Keck, candidates for re-election, were commended for efficiency in their offices, and the three current Republican councilmen, Frank Middleton, candidate, Dick Keenan, candidate, and Leo Eickhoff received commendation for their "outstanding public service."

The aldermanic candidates, Frank Middleton, 321 North Prospect avenue, first ward; Dick Keenan, 1413 East Fourth street, second ward; Walter B. Edwards, 2247 East Broadway, third ward; and Russell Peck, recently returned overseas veteran, fourth ward, were selected, subject to ratification, in the caucus sessions. Chairmen of the caucuses were T. H. Yount, first ward; Glen Kell, second ward; A. L. Pringle, third ward; Herman Bloess, fourth ward.

Addresses Given

Following the presentation of the candidates short addresses were given by State Senator W. W. Blain and Representative Harvey Dow, of Sedalia, and D. S. Lamm, city counselor, all of whom praised the present city administration under the leadership of Mayor Wilks, and commented on the enthusiasm and the harmonious proceedings of the convention.

After adjournment, the city committee was organized in preparation for the coming campaign. W. D. Smith was elected chairman; Mrs. L. A. Spencer, vice chairman; Herbert Young, secretary, and Mrs. William Campbell, treasurer.

J. H. Bagby Candidate For Mayor

Ward nominated Ed Gorman for re-election as city assessor. Mr. Bolton has nominated Mr. Gorman each time he was placed on the Democratic ticket as a candidate.

Monroe Nominates Mrs. Boothe

Mrs. George F. Boothe was nominated as city treasurer by Frank Monroe of the Fourth Ward delegation.

G. O. Hawley of the Third Ward nominated Palmer Nichols as the Democratic member on the Sedalia Board of Education. Nichols nomination is the same as election. He has served one term on the board which terminates this spring.

Elmer Sumners, former councilman of the Second Ward, was placed before the convention for ratification by Dr. F. O. Murphy; John Taylor's name was presented by G. O. Hawley, for the Third Ward; and Cline Cain by L. C. Bryson for the Fourth Ward candidate.

Declined Nomination

Previously at the city caucus held last Monday night the name of Elmer Pfeiffer was given as the Second Ward candidate, but Mr. Pfeiffer declined the nomination Saturday night prior to the convention. The delegates then decided upon Mr. Sumners as their candidate.

D. Kelly Scruton, chairman of the convention, was re-elected city chairman of the City Central Committee, and Miss Alice Scott, secretary-treasurer.

The convention at the close endorsed unanimously the Firemen's Pension Fund which is subject to approval by the voters of Sedalia at the city election on Tuesday April 2.

Some Talks Made

The candidates were then introduced and made brief talks.

Henry C. Salveter, former prosecuting attorney, gave a brief talk and said "The indecision we have had the last four years will soon come to an end. The people are entitled to have decisions, and I feel our candidates can convince the voters of Sedalia their sincerity. I am confident our candidates, if elected, will give Sedalia a progressive administration."

Fred F. Wesner, former city counselor, said "I marvel at the peace and brotherly love which prevailed at this convention. Sedalians have had enough the past four years and they must, if they hope to have an outstanding administration they should place in office these men we have nominated here tonight."

Ira Knox, councilman from the Third Ward, gave a brief talk and spoke in behalf of John Taylor, candidate for re-election. He told of his association with Mr. Taylor in the Council for the past year.

Gas Plant Is Being Razed

The last of the manufacturing gas equipment in Sedalia is being razed. It is the old gas plant on Moniteau avenue and the tracks, which was built in 1906.

Natural gas was installed in Sedalia in 1930, but the gas building, a strictly modern structure when built, was used until about a year ago. Recently the building was sold by the Missouri Public Service Corporation to the Evans Salvage Company, which is tearing it down.

Sedalia was one of the first cities the midwest to have gas, the use of artificial gas starting in 1868. A piece of the original pipe, found some time ago by L. W. Richardson, of the then City Light and Traction Company gas department, is now in the Pettis County Historical Society's museum at the court house.

Navy Captain in Mortal Dread Of Dying While on the Sea

BY HAL BOYLE

CAIRO, March 16—(AP)—Traveling abroad, you meet so many people they begin to look as much alike as ducks in a shooting gallery—all moved by the same mechanism and going the same way with the same set expression.

They forget you. You forget them. The only guy who remembers the occasion is the one who picked up the dinner check.

But there are a few odd ones that get filed in stray corners of your brain and pop out in memory sometimes like clothes from an overcrowded trunk. Such was the young Russian in Hong Kong who used to lie abed of mornings and shoot cockroaches off the ceiling with a rifle. Or the nurse at Tebessa who called the hospital ward for head injuries "The Cabbage Patch." Or the barber in Naples who gave free shampoos only to men with blue beards.

Afraid of Subs

Such certainly was "The Captain who was afraid of the sea." We traveled as passengers together through the North Atlantic during wartime and the Captain lived in mortal dread of submarines. Before the war he had commanded small steamers plying the American east coast and many of his friends from these peaceful times had gone under when German torpedoes began reaching across the Atlantic.

Their watery graves were in his mind when he was summoned to Britain on a shipping mission. From the start of our voyage he was certain our convoy was doomed. I never knew a man who mentally explored more thoroughly his prospects of dying. His morbid certainty of disaster was increased when he noted we were the tail end of the convoy.

"We will never reach England," he said. "we will be one of the first ships the submarines pick off."

One Ship Hit

He was a dark, morose man of middle age who picked at his food as thought he were afraid it was poisoned. At night he threw himself fully clothed on his bunk and lay there wide awake, staring at the bunk above him with weary eyes until daybreak.

"They usually hit just before dawn," he said.

Then one mild and cloudless afternoon we heard a muffled explosion and saw a tower of smoke rise from the stern of a destroyer escort to starboard. Our convoy moved on and another escort went back to stay with the crippled vessel. Later, our radio operator said he had overheard messages indicating seven men had been killed in the explosion.

After that my captain acquaintance stayed on deck each day until after dusk staring into the darkening waters.

"You can't see them coming at you," he said, "and I can't swim. We are helpless as worms on the pavement."

It was strangely disquieting to see this man gripped by fear of the sea that had been his highway and livelihood for 30 years.

One night we were alone in the wardroom. Outside heavy rains and wind beat at the rocking vessel and straining deck cargo cables groaned with an almost human voice.

Believed in Stars

"Do you believe in stars?" the captain asked suddenly, and before I could answer he said hurriedly:

"You won't laugh at me if I tell you I believe in astrology, will you? I know you won't I can tell by your hands. You have long fingers. That means you must be sensitive. You won't laugh at me.

"I got interested in astrology years ago when I was young and could find no meaning in the world. Religion and philosophy—I studied them and they told me nothing. Then I began reading astrology and behind the pattern of the stars I found meaning.

"I used to study astrology books at every port. When I got home I talked to my wife and children of the stars but they just laughed at me. So I don't talk about them any more at home. But I tell you the stars have the answer to everything. It's all written there if you can read it—everything that is to happen. And nothing can change it. The stars and what they have to tell are the only sure things in the universe."

Afraid of the Sea

"If you are sure your fate is written in the stars why do you worry about submarines?" I asked.

"It isn't that simple," he answered. "You don't understand. But thank you for not laughing at me."

I left and he sat alone until dawn in the wardroom.

When we landed safely in Britain he bought two hams from the steward for bartering and headed happily for London, self assured, his gloom gone.

"Aren't you worried about bombs?" I asked.

"As long as they don't come at me from under the sea I'm not afraid," he said cheerfully. "I just can't stand the thought of dying at sea."

HEART DISEASE COMMON

A large life insurance company has stated that 35% of their death claims are due to heart disease; the mortality record from heart disease in Chicago is 32%. In towns where life is not so strenuous the rate is slightly less.

Sir. Thomas Lewis in "Clinical Disorders of the Heart", page 4 states, "The relative frequency of the different disorders of the heart beat is a follows: Auricular fibrillation 40%, premature contractions 35%, paroxysmal tachycardia, sinus arrhthymia, heart block and flutter 15%, alternations of the heart 10%."

I wish to point out that ALL of the above are caused by a disturbance of the nerve supply to or within the heart and these conditions constitute 60% of all heart ailments. In other words you must look to the nervous system for the cause of 60% of heart disease and the other 40% are no doubt largely caused, indirectly at least, by disturbances within the nervous system.

The chiropractic profession is based on the idea that disease is caused by a disturbance of the nervous system and puts its greatest emphasis upon the study and treatment of the nervous system.

Inasmuch as the nervous system is the chiropractor's specialty and 60% of heart disease is of nervous origin, the chiropractor is justified in contending that they can accomplish more, in removing the fundamental cause of heart disease, than any other healing profession.

In view of the frequency of heart disorders, I shall devote several of the following articles to the heart and instruments which record heart action.

GREMLINS—that's what did it! Our photo last week was not of Skeeter Willis, Oklahoma Wrangler, but rather of Ted Painter, Tune Chaser. Sorry, and we hereby try again . . . Plans have just been set for bringing the Academy Award Theatre to KMBC Tuesday nights at 8 p. m., starting April 2. Here promises another topflight dramatic show of Hollywood stars to take its place along with "Radio Theatre" (Mondays, 8 p. m.), "Screen Guild Players" (Mondays, 9 p.m.), "Reader's Digest-Radio Edition" (Sundays, 1 p.m.), "Hollywood Star Time" (Sundays, 1:30 p.m.) and a host of other "industry-best" KMBC presentations.

"Skeeter" Willis

WE TOLD you Sportscaster Sam Molen would be making things interesting this spring! First off—the challenge of KMOX's France Laux that Sam Molen can't produce a bowling team in the Kansas City areas to down his nationally known squad of keglers. Laux, you know, is in St. Louis sports fans what Molen is to fans around these parts! That's quite a hunk to bite off, but the challenge has been accepted and Molen announced his bowler selections the past week over his 6:10 and 9:40 sportscasts. Laux is bringing his squad to Kansas City for afternoon and evening competitions at the Pla-Mor alleys, March 30—with the whole affair being staged in behalf of the current Red Cross campaign.

THIS WEEK — little known facts about well known radio entertained, Ray Hudgens of KMBC's "Rhythm Riders" (KMBC—Mondays thru Fridays, 5:45 p.m.). Imagine an ambitious ambition like this—to play clarinet like Benny Goodman, fiddle like Venuti— and catch a ten pound bass. Well, knowing Ray and his talents, that's not at all an impossibility. He can go that even one better by being a better - than - average emcee. Born in Camden, Missouri on September 28, 1911, Ray when a small boy was brought to Kansas City. One look at him now though —and believe you me, he ain't no "small" boy! Six feet two, carrying around 225 pounds! While spending most of his life in these parts, Ray traveled for some time with national name dance bands, Jimmy Joy for one. Yes,—he's another happily married KMBC'er—with one son!

Ray Hudgens

LOCAL INTEREST is contained in the Caroline Ellis story this Tuesday (2:15 p.m.) on her "Magic Book." She is going to tell the story of "Squeegy Bug," written and illustrated by two local young men . . . March 28 (Thursday) is the day set for the Radio Broadcasting Clinic and Exhibit at the Kansas City Advertising and Sales Executives Club. A few minutes of your time will give you a better understanding of what makes the wheels go around in radio . . . Two important program changes of a cultural nature are the moves of "People's Platform" to 8:30 p. m. Tuesdays, and "Invitation to Music" taking over the time of the Kansas City Philharmonic, 7 p. m. Thursdays.

REMEMBER TO send in your questions about Louisiana Lou for answering next week. Jed Starkey is next up, so start the questions along about him, care of KMBC.

Churchill Wants UNO To Thrash Out Troops Moves

Evacuation By Reds In Iran And Dardanelles Issue Brought To Fore

By LARRY HAUCK

NEW YORK, March 15—(AP)—Winston Churchill declared Friday night that the United Nations Security Council should thrash out the Soviet Union's failure to evacuate Iran and should pronounce judgment on the Dardanelles question "if Russia persists in putting pressure on Turkey."

The Council meets in New York on March 25.

"Thus early will come a very great test for the world organization on which so many hopes are founded," Churchill said at a dinner climaxing an all-day city reception.

Churchill said that at the Potsdam conference the Americans and British offered Russia "a joint guarantee of the complete freedom of the straits in peace and war, whether for merchant ships or ships of war."

"To this guarantee Turkey would gladly have subscribed," Churchill said. "But we were told that that was not enough. Russia must have a fortress inside the straits from which she could dominate Constantinople."

Churchill's reference to the joint guarantee offer by the United States and Britain and Russia's reported demand for a fortress opposite Constantinople was the first apparent public disclosure of those two phases of the Potsdam talks.

While revision of the Montreux convention covering the straits has been suggested, it was not known, the big three conversation at Potsdam had revolved also around the points mentioned by Churchill.

Speaking two days after Generalissimo Stalin called him a "warmonger," Churchill failed to mention the Soviet leader by name but he did refer to the "head of the Soviet government" as a signer of an agreement to evacuate Iran.

"Send More Troops"

"Now we are told that the Soviet government, instead of leaving, are actually sending in more troops." Churchill said. "Now this is one of those cases for which the United Nations Security Council was especially devised x x x by all means let the matter be thrashed out there and let respect be shown, even by the greatest or most deeply-interested powers, to the conclusions of the Security Council."

Ambassadors from 19 countries, including Iran, heard Churchill speak in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. The official guest roster listed no one from Russia.

Churchill deviated from his prepared text in commenting on his recent Fulton speech:

"I do not wish to withdraw or modify a single word."

The former Prime Minister was given a minute-long ovation at the start of his talk and another nearly that long as he closed. As he left the ballroom holding up his hand in the familiar "V" sign, more cheering started.

Churchill said he was in entire accord with observations that "in the last few days there is a great measure of misunderstanding."

Churchill repeated a belief he expressed in his Fulton Mo., speech 10 days ago that he did not believe "war is inevitable or imminent." It was in that address that he called for a fraternal association between Britain and the United States.

Asks Fraternal Association

Discussing relations between the United States and Great Britain, the wartime leader said:

"I have never asked for an Anglo-American military allaince or a treaty. I asked for fraternal association, free voluntary fraternal association. I have no doubt that it will come to pass, as surely as the sun will rise tomorrow. But you do not need a treaty to express the natural affinities and friendships which arise in a fraternal association. On the other hand, it would be wrong that the fact should be concealed or ignored."

Churchill declared "nothing can prevent our nations drawing ever closer to one another and nothing can obscure the fact in their harmonious companionship lies the main hope of a world instrument for maintaining peace on earth and goodwill to all men."

Churchill also said:

"The only question which in my opinion is open is whether the necessary harmony of thought and action between the American and British people will be reached in a sufficiently plain and clear manner and in good time to prevent a new world struggle or whether it will come about, as it has come before, only in the course of that struggle.

"I do not believe that war is inevitable or imminent. I do not believe that the rulers of Russia wish for war at the present time."

Speaking of the "widespread sympathy throughout the English-speaking world for the people of Russia," Churchill said:

"If the Soviet government does not take advantage of this sentiment, if on the contrary they discourage it, the responsibility will be entirely theirs."

Nazis And Japs Laid Low

He added:

"There is no reason why Soviet Russia should feel ill-rewarded for her efforts in the war. If her losses have been grevious, her gains have been magnificent. Her two tremendous antagonists, Germany and Japan, have been laid low.

"Japan was overthrown almost entirely by American arms. Russia recovered almost without striking a blow all that she lost to Japan 40 years ago. In the west the Baltic states and a large part of Finland have been incorporated in Russia. The Cruzon line is no longer questioned."

Churchill said there has been much misunderstanding in recent days, declaring:

"Could you have a greater example of misunderstanding than when we are told that the present British government is not a free democratic government because it consists only of the representatives of a single party whereas Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria and other countries have the representatives of several parties in their governments?

"This argument overlooks the fact that democratic governments are based on free elections.

"These misunderstandings will be swept away if we get through the present difficult period safely and if the British, American and Russian peoples are allowed to mingle freely with one another and see how things are done in their respective countries."

Hundreds of pickets, including a large bloc of CIO members, demonstrated outside the Waldorf-Astoria hotel where Churchill spoke.

Smaller Loaf Is Authorized

Be Done With No Cut In The Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—The OPA Friday authorized a reduction in the weight of bread loaves and bakery products of up to 10 per cent without a corresponding cut in price ceilings.

The agency said the purpose of this action is to meet recommendations of the President's famine emergency committee to reduce the weight of such products.

Ordinarily, OPA said, weight reductions could not be made without trimming prices. It added, however, that no price cut can practicably be made under the present circumstances for these reasons:

1. The agency said that since the extent of the permissible decrease in weight will vary for each producer's type of equipment, "there is no way of figuring the exact amount of each producer's decrease in weight upon which to base a price reduction."

2. Overhead and other costs will remain relatively constant for each producer, but the weight reduction will cause labor and labelling cost increases, OPA said.

3. Any fractional net saving to producers as a result of a weight cut "will represent such a small amount for a loaf of bread that it would be impossible to provide for corresponding price reduction."

Six per cent of all fatal traffic accidents in 1944 happened to cars whose drivers were under 18 years of age.

Mukden; 'City Bled by Russians'

The bodies of 10 Japanese soldiers still untouched after execution are inspected by Chinese soldiers amid wreckage of Mukden buildings, where Russian Army units controlled the city prior to reported evacuation. How Japanese met death was not explained, but they were believed to have been among forces used by Russians for labor in removing machinery from city's factories.

This is a typical Mukden police Station. It maintains an armed guard is at its sandbag barricade. These photos, made prior to reported Russian withdrawal from the city, are exclusive NEA Telephotos by Harlow M. Church, NEA-Acme correspondent

The following dispatch by an NEA-Acme correspondent-photographer was written prior to the Russian withdrawal from Mukden as reported by the Chinese Central News Agency. Chinese circles declare that the reported Mukden evacuation does not necessarily indicate a general Russian withdrawal from Manchuria.

BY HARLOW M. CHURCH
NEA Staff Correspondent

MUKDEN, Manchuria — (NEA) —This Pittsburgh of the Far East, once the industrial heart of Japan's mainland Asiatic empire, presents a grim picture of savage desolation and lifeless ruins. Its factories lie skeletons ravaged by buzzards.

Mukden's arteries have been cut and the city bled dry by the Russians during their occupation and domination of the area. Without exception factories have been cleared of machinery and equipment right down to the electrical wiring and window sashes. Even doors have been removed.

Gaping holes can be seen in every wall where the Russians blasted to expedite the moving of large machinery and equipment. Some factories have been completely destroyed by demolition charges after all desirable equipment had been removed.

Japanese soldiers who did the bulk of the heavy labor under Soviet guidance have disappeared. Some were sent as slave labor to Russia and Siberia, some never left the scene of their labors.

The bodies of ten Japanese soldiers were found in the ruins of one factory, lying where they fell after being executed by persons unknown.

The sound of rifle fire and occasional machine gun bursts can be heard breaking the cemetery-like stillness of this industrial graveyard.

Russian soldiers can be seen loading machinery from still unstripped factories into American lend-lease trucks.

This systematic destruction is not confined to former Japanese war plants alone. The huge Mukden Gas company, which supplied gas for cooking and heating in the city, is completely out of operation. Its boilers, instruments and gauges have been removed.

Generators Taken

Most of the generators in the city power plant have been expropriated and those that remain furnish only sporadic service, often not enough power to supply the city's water plants.

The Japanese army barracks, which the Chinese would like to have used for their own troops, have been blown up.

All first class Manchurian rail equipment has been taken over by the Russians.

The city itself is an armed camp enveloped in fear.

Russian and Chinese pillboxes dot every corner. Russian tanks and troops armed with tommy-guns are everywhere. Chinese troops are seldom seen except as guards for Chinese headquarters and other official buildings.

A rigidly enforced 8 p. m. to 6 a. m. curfew shuts the city down tight every night. Business, with the exception of the black market, is at a standstill with the local Chinese and Japanese population living in complete terror of the Russians.

When will the Russians withdraw from Manchuria in accordance with the Sino-Soviet pact of last August?

Replied Major General Andrei Kovtun-Stankavitch, commander of the Soviet force in Mukden:

"When will American Marines leave North China?"

Pays $20,000 Tax On Dice Winnings

LOS ANGELES, March 15—(AP)—"Is this where I declare $53,000 income I won in dice games in Europe in 1945?" an ex-GI asked at the Riverside Internal Revenue office.

Told it was, he filled out a form and paid over $20,000 tax.

Under government regulation, Collector Harry C. Westover, who related the incident here today, did not disclose the honest taxpayer's name.

Semi-Pro Ball Is Praised By 'Hap' Chandler

'Undesirable' Players To Be Kept Out Of The Semi-Pro Ranks

WICHITA, Kas., March 16—(AP)—Semi-pro baseball's prexy revealed with enthusiasm today a letter from organized baseball's commissioner Albert (Happy)) Chandler, praising the sandlot program for sowing "the seed of clean sportsmanship and healthy competition that have made our great American game—baseball—what it is today."

"You know my tremendous interest x x xand my desire to encourage every organization that has is its objective the sponsorship of sandlot groups," Chandler's letter said.

Tournament August 16

Ray Dumont, president of the National Baseball Congress which guides the semi-pro game, said Chandler will open its twelfth annual national tournament at Wichita the night of August 16, and his letter of endorsement will appear in the organization's 1946 yearbook.

Dumont suggested that all types of baseball, from juniors to pros, might be closely allied under Chandler's supervision in the near future, but added:

"However, we want nothing from organized baseball ranks except their continued good will. We desire no part of the baseball promotional foundation which has been set up to encourage more play. Our organization is self-sustaining and will continue to appropriate money to increase interest in baseball where we feel it will do the most good."

Cooperating with pro ball, Dumont said, the congress will keep out of semi-pro play as "undesirable" all players considered "detrimental to the professional ranks."

Junior Legion Team To Hold A Meeting

Johnny Thomas, manager of the Junior Legion baseball team, Saturday called attention to the fact many young ball players do not realize they can play with the Legion team. Some believe they are too young others too old.

Manager Thomas states all boys who were seventeen years old, before January 1, can report at the State Guard Armory this afternoon at 2 o'clock and discuss their possible chance of getting on the squad. Boys from thirteen years up to seventeen are included.

However, if a boy became seventeen years of age since January 1, he cannot qualify for the team.

All players from last year's team still eligible are requested to attend this meeting. At this time the practice date will also be announced for the youngsters.

S-C Tigers To Have Spring Grid Practice

Smith-Cotton high school football Tigers who will be back in high school next fall are to report for spring practice Monday afternoon. "That is providing weather conditions will permit," Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow announced in high school last week.

Thirty-two players have been notified to report and get their football togs. As many suits were issued up to Friday evening and a full practice session for the first day. The players out this spring are mostly boys who were out for the team last fall and those who were on the squad.

Coach Dow in making his announcement reported, "I hope to have a far better team this year than the one we had last season, and I think the boys did good for what football they knew when the season opened."

NIBC Championship To Southern Illinois

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 16—(AP)—Southern Illinois Normal's hustling maroons broke a deadlock midway of the final half and sprinted to a 49 to 40 win over Indiana State Teachers College, Terre Haute, to annex the National Intercollegiate Basketball championship before a record crowd of 6,500 fans here tonight.

Outscored on field goals 16 to 15, Southern Illinois won the title on the Maroons expert markmanship at the free throw line. The Maroons counted 19 of 22 gratis tosses, while Indiana State was abue to sink only 8 of 17.

Don Sheffer, 6-foot 2-inch Illinois forward, hit 10 of 12 free throws and racked up three field goals in the clutch to spearhead the new champions' attack.

Quentin Stinson, Gene Stotlar and Sheffer dropped in field goals in rapid succession shortly after tip-off to give Southern Illinois a six-point advantage before Joe Depaugh sank a long one for Indiana State.

Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin's Illinois quintet ran its advantage to seven points, 21 to 14, before John Bennett and Ed Lash got their sights on the bucket and cut the lead down to 23-19 at the half.

The Maroons dropped behind after nine minutes of the second period, but climbed back on top when Leedio Cabutti sneaked under the basket for a lay-in shot to put his team back in front 33 to 32.

Sport Scraps

(By D. Kelly Scruton)

FRIDAY night I had a glance at the automobile of the future", the torpedo shaped car which seven years ago attracted nationwide attention when it was pictured in Popular Mechanics and Popular Science magazines. "Back Then" the car was something the people said never would happen—but the cars of today are coming to that shape.

Does sound funny that I write it in the sports column. However, in checking with the driver and one of those who built the queer machine, I find that he is not only enjoying his experiments but also is getting a lot of sport out of it. M. H. Goldberg, former Lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Corps who served with both the Eighth and Ninth Air Forces, and prior to the United States entry into the war was with the R. A. F., was driving the machine.

This is the story how I happened to get to see it.

"What's that thing?" Officer George Riley turned to Officer Lester Estes, as the car sped by them about Broadway and Barrett avenue headed west. They followed and stopped "that thing' at the City Limits to see what it was. They then asked Goldberg to drive over to my house to see it and write a story.

Goldberg, whose home is in Falmouth, Kentucky, told of it's construction. It has an all copper body hand made. It has a special V-8 Ford engine, and goes better than 120 miles per hour. Seating capacity for four. Goes 20 miles to the gallon up to fifty miles and a little less after it starts into higher speeds. Weighs 3800 pounds. Uses 15x700 inch wheels.

It is on a test run to Los Angeles, Calif. After the run the car will be completely changed to have a pusher type engine. Seating capacity of ten persons, and will do more than 200 miles per hour. The speed is only a guess at the present time. It will be a blower type motor with forced water cooling, and the interior will be air conditioned.

THIS brings to mind the following article which was carried by the Associated Press on cars of speed.

"Ab Jenkins, who owns more automobile endurance driving records than ayone else in the world, wants a new deal for "the greatest track in the world"—the Bonneville salt flats in western Utah.

"When a racer wants to try for a record," says the 63-year-old Jenkins, "he must notify the regional American Automobile Association director in California.

"When this happens the director must come here and his expenses have to be paid, rain or shine, until the try is over. All other big race tracks have directors near them. Why can't we?"

"Ab, former mayor of Salt Lake City, is building a new car and hopes to go after the land speed record of 369.7 miles per hour in the next year or so."

SEDALIA will get plenty of baseball and softball this year. The members of the Park Board is already scratching their heads about the problem, but it will be worked out to the satisfaction of all. It seems the Missouri Pacific Eagles softballers want two nights for games under the lights and the Senior Legion baseball team has a desire for two nights of baseball. Now the Merchants haven't quite fully decided to quit baseball and they'll want a turn or two.

But I am sure Emery Ellsworth, can get the bunch together and work out a deal of some kind. I speak for myself that I think all should have some night, and it should not be placed to benefit any one team.

Fellows let's not have any harsh words over the deal. Ellsworth is doing his best and deserves much credit for being brave enough to accept the responsibility of trying to figure the deal out.

Jeff City Owls Want Games With Sedalia

Harry Smith Returns

Harry Smith, All-American lineman of the University of Southern California, is back at Missouri University as an assistant coach of the Tigers, and is one of Coach Don Faurot's attempts to solve the present coach's problem of an adequate defense against the high scoring offensive plays thrown at football these days. Smith, who aided Faurot in 1941 and 1942,, was approved by the Board of Surators a week ago. He has already resumed his duties aiding in spring football.

Faurot remarked, "I consider Smith an outstanding teacher of the young linemen."

Smith's playing days well qualify him as a line assistant to Faurot, for the big fellow was practically a unanimous All-American as a South California guard in 1938 and 1939. He played one year of professional football with the Detroit Lions of the National League in 1940 before joining the Tiger coaching staff, and has been employed by the Aluminum Company of Kansas City since 1942.

Kansas and Oklahoma Aggies will play for the right to represent the fifth district in the playoffs

Want Baseball Peace Between U. S. And Mex.

Two Baseball Leaders Urge Two Countries Get Together Soon

MEXICO CITY, March 16—(AP)—Two U. S. baseball leaders—J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, and Andy Cohen, formed New York Giant infielder now managing El Paso in the Mexican National League—spoke out today for a baseball peace between the U. S. and Mexico.

Gardner, here on a vacation, volunteered to come to Mexico after the 1946 season as a good-will ambassador provided Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and minor league chieftain William C. Bramham would accept the proposal.

Cohen said he would try to bring U. S. teams to Mexico City next spring to train as the guests of Aztecas, Mexico City entry in the Mexican National League, which is a Class B loop in organized baseball.

The Mexican National League is not to be confused with the Mexican League, sponsored by the wealthy Pasquel brothers. The latter is not in organized baseball.

"Jorge Pasquel, president of the Mexican League, is such an honest man that I feel certain that if the situation were presented in the right manner he could be convinced that organized baseball is the right procedure," Gardner explained.

The Texas League boss said he believed that a Mexican League could have a population total to qualify for AAA rating—similar to the American Association, International or Pacific Coast League—under the U. S. system.—

"Montreal and Toronto were admitted to the International League on such a basis, so why shouldn't we have some sort of a league admitting Mexico City?" he asked.

Cohen, here with El Paso for the opening of the Mexican National League season, said that at next December's minor league meeting he would seek the fullest possible cooperation of U. S. baseball with that of Mexico.

"I think we have a future in the Mexican National League and I am going to try and mike it as strong as possible. I don't care what the Pasquales do—but they are nobody's fools," he added.

Kansas-Okla. A & M Game Is A Sellout

LAWRENCE, Kas., March 16—Only part of the University of Kansas student body will get to see the Kansas-Oklahoma A. and M. sell-out basketball game at Kansas City Monday night, but the whole campus is echoing the battle cry, "beat the Aggies!"

The Jayhawkers' share of tickets—3,500—were sold last Monday, three days after being offered, and disappointed ticket-seekers have been working all the angles they know to get ducats.

A special train of eight coaches will carry rooters to Kansas City where they will hold a pre-game rally at the Hotel Muehlebach, led by the University band and cheerleaders.

Senior Legion To Practice At Park Today

Team Not To Be Held To Ex-Servicemen; Open To All Players

The Senior American Legion Ramblers, will hold practice at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, at Liberty Park. Practice will be held providing weather conditions permit, and if not a meeting of all ball players is called for 2:30 o'clock at the State Guard Armory. The announcement was made Saturday by Vincent Siegel, manager of the team, which is sponsored by Pettis County Post 16, American Legion.

No positions have been assigned, everything depends on the results of several practices. "In other words," Siegel said, "the positions are open and to the best player goes the spot he shows up best in."

Fourteen Players Out

More than fourteen players and veterans of World War II have indicated their intentions of going out for the team. Among this group are several boys who played on the Junior Legion team last season. However, many of the boys who are graduating from Junior Legion baseball are leaving for the service and may not get an opportunity to play with the team this season.

Veterans of baseball reputation back and out for the team are: Junior Smith, Eldon Barnes, outfielders; Billy Smith, "Bus" Watson, George 'Windy" Baker, infielders; pitchers and infielders Jack Coffelt, Johnny Smethers; pitchers, 'Bus" Walker and Al Schreck; catcher, Elwood McMackin. Junior Legion players of last year are: George Thompson and Joe Waters, outfielders; Jim Cooney, pitcher-outfielder and Jack Shoemaker, catcher.

Want More Pitchers

It is not necessary for a ball player to be an ex-service man. Any player interested in trying out for the team is requested to report at the practice or the meeting which will be held. It is the desire of the Legion Post to have a strong semi-pro team for Sedalia this season, therefore they are not holding the team to veterans of World War II alone.

Manager Siegel is desiring to contact as many pitchers as possible and any interested are asked to contact him Sunday or this week.

Arkansas Derby Favorites Lose

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 16—(AP)—Two outstanding Arkansas derby candidates and Kentucky derby eligibles suffered defeats in two featured six-furlong races before an estimated crowd of 8,800 at Oaklawn Park today.

A. L. Fay was astride Double Slam. A close second choice to Mr. Chairman, the winner paid $5.20 in the $2 straight mutuels. He was clocked in 1:14.4.

Leonardo da Vinci, famous artist, spent more time in scientific study than at painting. He wanted to fly and even built plans for a flying machine. He wrote all his theories and observations in reverse, so that they could be read only when held up to a mirror.

Hornets Will Practice Again This Afternoon

No Home Games Will Be Scheduled Until Diamond Is Ready

Last Sunday the Smithton Hornets opened spring training at the Smithton diamond. A rough infield hindered the practice but it was expected that the infield would me in condition for games within the course of a few weeks.

Outfielders, infielders and pitchers were given a little practice in a game, which was staged between two sides equally chosen from the group present.

A few preliminary games are expected to be played before the club opens the regular season. Although the team has as yet to schedule a full docket of games, four games have been tentatively scheduled and more are expected to be announced within two or three weeks. No home games will be scheduled until the diamond is put into good shape, which should be by the first of April.

The team showed possibilities of a good organization Sunday judging by the turn-out and the interest displayed by those present. With the catcher expected to be discharged from the navy by the first of April and the regular short stop present, the team should be able to put together a formidable aggregation by the middle of April.

Practice will again be held, weather permitting, today, and all members are urged to be present.

Sam Snead Leads Jacksonville Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 16—(AP)—Sam Snead, who concedes "playing pretty good golf these days," fired a six-under par 66 today to pull six strokes ahead at the half-way mark of the $10,000 Jacksonville open golf tournament.

The long-driving pro from Hot Springs, Va., defending champion in the local meet, went out in 31 and took a 25 coming back to put his 36-hole total at 130.

In second place is the veteran stylist Henry Pickard of Oklahoma City, with 126. Following are Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., and Pete Cooper of Gainesville, Fla., with 138's.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Taunton, Mass., who held second place yesterday with 65, faltered today and took a 74 for 139.

Today's round was the slammer's show all the way. He racked up five birdies going out and picked up another coming in, slowing up and playing a more conservative game on the back nine.

The 36-hole windup will be played tomorrow, the double round being forced when showers delayed the tourney's start.

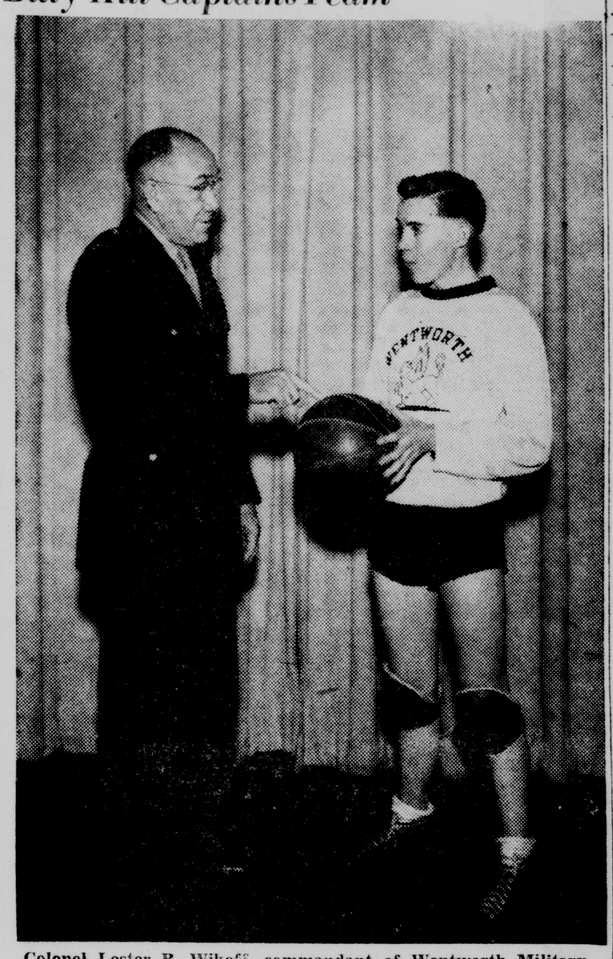

Stalcup To M. U.

Wilbur Stalcup, Maryville Teachers basketball coach, has been obtained by the University of Missouri and is in keeping with the university's policy of bringing up successful young Missouri coaches. Don Faurot, athletic director at the university, said Stalcup's outstanding record at Northwest Missouri State Teachers College entitled him to a coaching advancement.

In ten seasons handling the Maryville Bearcats, Stalcup has never finished out of first division in Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association. His teams won the championship twice, tied for it another time, finished second five times, and third twice. During the past season, Stalcup returned from the navy where he was a lieutenant on the U. S. S. Gilbert Islands, took charge of the Maryville team December 15, and directed it to a disputed conference championship. In the navy Stalcup coached his ship's team and won 21 games and lost none.

The birds which carried messages in World War II were homing pigeons, not carrier. The latter type is a bird that derived its name from the proud way it carries its head.

Stalin Heads New Council Of Ministers

LONDON, March 16—(AP)—Marshal Stalin resigned Friday night as chairman of the Soviet Union's Council of Peoples' Commissars and immediately was elected chairman of a newly-established Council of Ministers. As chairman he is Premier and head of the government.

The resignation and election, announced by the Moscow radio in a broadcast recorded here by the Soviet Monitor, was a technicality brought about by the change of name of the Russian governing body, substituting "ministers" for "peoples' commissars."

Stalin had been chairman of the Council of Peoples' Commissars since May 22, 1941.

The broadcast said he was elected unanimously to the new post by the Supreme Soviet, with the two chambers voting separately.

The same change of title also was voted for the Councils of Peoples' Commissars of Union and Autonomous Republic, which became the Councils of Ministers of Union and Autonomous Republics and will be headd, as before, by Stalin.

Extradition On Two Granted

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 16—(AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri ordered Friday the extradition to Kentucky of Vernon P. Sheety and Charles Harwood wanted there on a preliminary charge of malicious assault with a dangerous weapon during a labor dispute involving the Dixie Greyhound bus lines and a striking AFL union.

Sheety and Harwood are being held in St. Louis.

Morris J. Levin, attorney for the AFL Amalgamated Motor Bus Union, told Governor Donnelly "there was evidence the Dixie Greyhound company and city officials of Paducah, Ky., (where the alleged assault occurred Jan. 31) were joined together against the union," and that extradition was being asked in order to put pressure on the AFL union.

After listening to testimony by the Paducah chief of police and and O. C. Vaughn, who alleged he was beaten with what "looked like a rubber hose" by Sheety, Harwood and several others, the governor ruled there was "evidence of a crime," and ordered the extraditions.

Police Chief W. E. Bryant of Paducah denied he had ever said "I'm cooperating with the company 100 percent in this strike," as two members of the striking union testified today.

Holland J. Bryan, commonwealth counsel seeking extradition of the two men, said the action had been brought by citizens of Paducah who had witnessed the beating of non-striking employes of the bus line.

Levin said the strike, still in effect, had tied up transportation by the company in Memphis, St. Louis, Effingham, Ky., Jackson, Tenn., Jackson, Miss., Paducah, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Evansville, Ind.
